MAKES RUBBER STAMPS HERE.

ROBERT B. DRYSDALE is the name of the man who makes rubber stamps in Des Moines. The News takes it for granted that every business man in Des Moines knows Drysdale makes the Des Moines, Rubber Stamp works, 202 West Fifth street. If there are any who are so unpatriotic as to send out of the city for the rubber stamps they do not deserve the title of business men. Rather they are shysters, who are not even loyal to their own interests.

Rubber stamps are needed and used by every business firm in Iowa. If all of this immense trade could be diverted to Des Moines the Des Moines Rubber Stamp works would become a hive of industry, employing 100 or more hands where but five are employed today.

There's method in all this "boosting." It's not simply a fad. The News wants it to become a habit. Any citizen of Des Moines who hasn't the interest in his own city to give a hearty "boost" and good word occasionally isn't worth the candle.

Buy your rubber stamps at home, and let all your friends know that we can make this job in Des Moines. The smallest factory is as important as the largest so long as it is successful. For if it is making a success a factory doesn't remain small very long. You can't hold a good thing down.

Moral: "Boost."

QUEER GRIM GATES OF WALL-ST. DUMBLY TELL OF A GREAT FEAR

GIANT GATES OF WALL STREET.

At the top, from right to left, are gates of Hanover bank, the Lamb jokes and the Stock Exchange financial building at 47 Wall street. Below is the front door of Morgan's bank.

By W. G. Shepherd.
Special Correspondence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Gold and silver flow in Wall street. But if one keeps his eyes open he will miss discover in Wall street strange tales that have told by bronze, steel, copper and pronunciation.

Here's one little tale I "saw" in the great little building. Its fitness street. It is all told in metal and it has a moral as hard and unyielding as Carnegie stock.

In the private, and secretly exclusive offices of a famous broker, with the legs twined and twisted in the shape of a wonderful carpet, I have seen a giant, but wonderful little bronze door, over a box. It is of hundred-year-old bronze. You enjoy look at it for its beauty and as every moment reveals new beauty in its design. At last, if you were observing you would see the joke in the table. The top of each leg is a fine reproduction of a lady's head. That's the Wall street joke about the table, you see. Bronze, then, lady. Lamb is what were getting at.

"Lambs Head Table" for many years has been a joke in the street.

The joke is that the lambs are dead and lamb jokes have lost their point.

The table is now hidden in a private office.

And at the wide entrance to the Stock building, where this broker and his fellows have their offices, you will find a huge ten-ton wrought iron door.

It can be closed in ten seconds by a man who knows the secret of its mechanism with big, stout pinions.

Ten thousand of Wall street's lambs couldn't shut it down if they wanted to.

That gate was patented after the Panic of 1907.

The story that the big bronze table and the iron gate tell is that even Wall street called about the lambs and the sheepish lambs. Now, it is certain about them, it does it in secret, and as for welcoming firms, in person, especially in Groups, there's the gate.

There are several of these great hydraulic gates in Wall street building. There are any number of steel, iron and bronze portals that are so finely balanced that they are closed so easily and quietly as the lid of your watch.

It may surprise you to have the conclusion drawn that Wall street doesn't welcome lambs. In Wall street does welcome lambs, but it doesn't welcome them in every person. It wants prefers the telegraph and the mail. Not long ago the Stock Exchange gallery was open to visitors. There were sights and spectators in their frenzy on the floor.

This was explained to me when I visited the gallery. I have been that no one had been admitted since it closed. The gallery was empty. Silently, but even a parlor and been with its mail.

I appealed at last to Henry Clewes, banker and broker. "Tell take you over there if you promise to stay only a minute," he said. "No one is allowed in the gallery. Guards across passed by a member of the exchange."

I promised and, on the way across the street to the gallery he said: "You haven't got a bomb on you? No. Well, that's why the exchange greeted this rule about the gallery. There are so many persons in the country who think that corporations don't treat them right that there is danger of crimes. Somebody might throw a bomb into the floor."

I followed my guide past several more great wrought iron "gates of Wall street," down marble corridors and past knee men, to gray uniform, uniformed guards of the great marble building of mystery.

From the elevator we passed into the empty gallery. What a story its walls could tell! There were a few dirty standing almost covered with dust. The ceiling was dusty. Evidently not even a parlor and been with its mail.

I appealed at last to Henry Clewes, banker and broker. "Tell take you over there if you promise to stay only a minute," he said. "No one is allowed in the gallery. Guards across passed by a member of the exchange."

I promised and, on the way across the street to the gallery he said: "You haven't got a bomb on you? No. Well, that's why the exchange greeted this rule about the gallery. There are so many persons in the country who think that corporations don't treat them right that there is danger of crimes. Somebody might throw a bomb into the floor."

NEGRO HELD AS A SUSPECT IN OTTUMWA MURDER

Stellie Carried Coat With Fateful Buttons Missing—Harbored Strange Black.

The police believe Forrest Stellie, negro arrested last night by Detectives Frank Dolinger at the Union depot, knows who murdered pretty Clara Rosen in Ottumwa a week ago Friday night.

When arrested Stellie had just purchased a ticket to St. Joseph and was about to board the train. He was detained by Detective Dolinger. Stellie could not tell where he lived or his business in Des Moines.

The suspicion which directed the detectives' attention to Stellie was the fact that one button was missing from his overcoat, which had also recently been pressed and cleaned.

Stellie denied that he bought the overcoat. He said he had had it for days and he had tended his shoes. The shoes were shined, too, and the negro's trousers were pressed.

Chief Miller will get into communication with Chief of Police Gallagher of Ottumwa today. There has been seen about town with a strange black for the past few days, whose identity or whereabouts he will not tell.

"DOLLAR CLUB" TO BOOST IOWA

Young Men of Des Moines Decide to Incorporate Movement.

An organization to be known as the "Dollar club" was formed last night by a number of young business men of Des Moines, with the object of keeping Iowa money at home for investment purposes. The name of the club was adopted in recognition of the time honored maxim, but it is believed it will be adopted.

Incorporation papers similar to those of the Greater Des Moines committee will be adopted at the next meeting. The purpose of the organization, briefly stated, is as follows:

A campaign of education among the people of Iowa urging to investment opportunities in Iowa.

The suggestion which directed the detectives' attention to Stellie was the fact that one button was missing from his overcoat, which had also recently been pressed and cleaned.

Stellie denied that he bought the overcoat. He said he had had it for days and he had tended his shoes. The shoes were shined, too, and the negro's trousers were pressed.

DENVER TRAIN HELD UP AND LOOTED BY TWO BOLD BANDITS

red tabled man then entered the mail car. His complexion, a short stocky man with full face, wearing a black mask, stuffing outside to guard the other bandits.

Occasionally he fired a shot along the side of the car. Inside the mail car the red tabled man got busy. Apparently he knew exactly where the registered mail is kept, and this he broke open. He ripped open every package, took those he wanted, and threw them into a sack, and then ordering Taylor to walk ahead of him, jumped from the car. All told, the robber took eighteen packages of registered mail, which are known as "heavy packages."

"Now, then, boys!" he said the red haired rubber to the trainmen, "walk along ahead of us like nice fellows."

Bandits Get Away.

They did so. After walking a short distance on the track, the robber commanded the trainmen to return to Grimo and Lesigle jumped off of the engine, the bandits ran to front shot on the headlight, then disappeared, running in the direction of Fort Lupton.

Grimo made a record run to the Union depot, where he reported the robbery, and within a few minutes the Denver Immediate Force was rushing to the scene. Fort Lupton was forthwith notified, and a posse from that place, Lafayette and Longmont, with the sheriffs of Boulder and Weld counties were rushed into the field. Up to 11:00 there had been no trace of the robbers late this morning.

Half Hour of Holdup.

DENVER, Feb. 13.—While running a fairly mixed passenger train on the Grande passenger train No. 6, Friday night, the robbers held up the train morning between Fort Lupton and Hoover by two bandits who suddenly appeared from the cold tender and uncoupled the engine and attempted to stop the train.

The bandits took the two engineers from the cab and forced the fireman to uncouple the locomotive from the train. The train was stopped about half a mile from the bandits, and the engine was then uncoupled and moved a short distance from the train.

With their two prisoners the two bandits ordered the train to be uncoupled as large and the other ordered the fireman to go back to the mail car and compelled the fireman to go out on the mail car with them.

Lined Up the Clerks.

There were two clerks in the car and they were lined up beside the fireman and the mail car bandits forced the fireman to open the safe and the mail car bandits lined up the two clerks in the car. The robbers then ordered the fireman to a row of blocks ahead of the train and then told him to shut down.

The bandits then made good their escape in the direction of Fort Lupton, but it is believed they really made their way to Denver. The train proceeded on to Santa Fe Junction, where the crews of the train and the uncoupled train reached Denver and when the train reached Denver the crews notified the postoffice department.

The robbers were masked and wore a mask to the scene of the holdup. The bandits were dressed in the usual dark clothes of the men and then had on their masks

CLEVELAND, GREAT MAN, SAYS SHAW AT LINCOLN MEETING

Former Iowa Governor Compares Cleveland and McKinley in Speech.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12.—Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, delivered an interesting address here tonight before the club at the Lincoln banquet of the spring republican celebrations.

"Abraham Lincoln," said Mr. Shaw, "was the right man in the right place at the right time. I dare not predict Roosevelt that if Grover Cleveland and William McKinley had occupied each other's places as president, that each would have been an utter failure.

Each was the right man at the right place at the right time. McKinley was a great and astute leader. Cleveland, and I want to say that Cleveland was one of the greatest presidents who ever held the office. He got every thing he could question when the country is with you, but it difficult when you have to go it alone. Cleveland was compelled to go it alone. Cleveland had and he why I voted for him.

Mr. Shaw, who has been on a business trip left for his home in Iowa today.

IF IT DISAPPEARS, IT'S ECZEMA

How to Tell Whether a Skin Affection is an Inherited Blood Disease or Not.

Sometimes it is hard to determine whether a skin affection is a sign of a blood disease or simply a form of eczema. Even physicians are often puzzled in their diagnosis. The best way for any one afflicted is to go to J. Reed Hoyt's drug store and get one large box Hoyt's pure drugs and oil-skin Arnica ointment and apply daily, and if the healing stops at once and the eczema disappears in a few days it may be set down as having been eczema, as it is the way pimples sets in the worst cases of eczema, and in curing cases, herpes, blotches, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, barber's and other forms of itch, scaly scalps, and all surface skin affections.

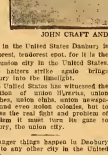
Those who will write to the Hoyt-Agnery Laboratories, No. 22 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York, can secure, by mail free of charge, a supply sufficient to cure a small eczema surface or piles; a complexion wonder; and remove pimples in twenty-four hours.

CAPITAL FLEW TO COURT FOR HELP AND LABOR'S HOMES IN DANBURY ARE PLACED IN THE MOST DANGEROUS JEOPARDY

Hat Manufacturers Plastered Attachments for Strike Damages on the Homes of Union Workers—There Are Hard Times Again, But No Hard Feelings Against Suing Employers.

(Staff Correspondence.)

DANBURY, Conn., Feb. 13.—At all the points where capital and labor



JOHN CRAFT AND HIS BARN HOME

touch in the United States Danbury is the sacred, tendered spot. For it is the only union city in the United States.

The strike again brings Danbury into the limelight.

The Danbury strike has witnessed the operation of union llyaeria, union churches, union shins, union newspapers and even union colonies, but to witness the real fight and surrender of unionism it must turn its gaze to Danbury, the union city.

Strange things happen in Danbury than to any other city in the United States.

For instance, Herman Lassen, when he goes to the German Lutheran church, next Sunday, where he is a trustee, will make hands, as usual, with D. E. Loewe, president of the board of trustees, and exchange brotherly greetings with him.

Mr. Loewe holds an attachment against Lassen's home.

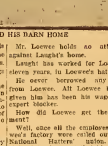
Lassen has worked for Loewe for years, and Loewe knows his business.

He never borrowed any money from Loewe. All Loewe has ever given him has been his wages as an expert hooker.

How did Loewe get the attachment?

Well, since all the employers in Loewe's factory were called out by the striking hat makers, Loewe claimed to the court that his business was damaged, and instead of levying against the unions, he levied against the homes of union men. Lassen's home was among them.

And the court, except the United States supreme court, have held that it constitutes against the homes in valid



AT TOP W. C. HAY IN FRONT OF HIS THEATRICAL HOME. MAYOR GILBERT.

Then there's John Craft, who has lived in a barn ever since the attachment was served in 1902.

With his savings he had bought a splendid piece of land in Danbury. Then the attachment was served. Craft saw that the attachment didn't carry any certain amount. It was blanket affair. The mere validable he made his property the greater was the amount of the levy.

So he put a fence and side porch on the barn, plastered it on the inside and then there he lived for five years.

"Goodness only knows what we can do," said his wife, "if we don't get We can't move. We can't build."

"Don't be alarm, you need at the house and need at the mines, too, for getting out is such a fit."

"No. My goodness, what kind of were trouble would we be in if we didn't for the unions?"

Nathan C. Hoy is a union man, but a born scab, too.

"Yes, the manufacturers have placed their pride right on the heart of our home," he said. "It feels like having a stranger in your table. That little home he moved to mortgage and we've been together for 23 years. She's stood beside me in all sorts of trouble. We have days dim and we've rinse now. It took us 23 years to buy that little place, and it is dear to me.

"I didn't work at Loewe's factory. I didn't strike at all. I was on work the during that strike in the same place. But they levied against my home just the same because I belonged to the union."

"There were 200 of us attached," coachmed Mr. Hoy. "Everyone of us got no end that he suffered in Danbury. We would have in the United States Hat's with union labels."

"It's bad enough to have your tools taken from you in a strike from other unions. Why I've seen a bread and butter strike, I've seen a coal strike. But when the employers end up on your home and take away your stove, your bedstead, your chairs, your money, it's time the laws should change.

Danbury may be on the firing line of unionism, but the men may have suffered as much as any other union in all Hatdom, but Danbury is not. There is no personal bitterness in all the dark days passed.

The handshake between Lenghl and Loewe, and between Hoy and Lassen, is sincere.

"Yes, a good fellow," they say of Loewe in Danbury.

"He's a good fellow. That's the trouble Loewe has to fight for his rights and he has to fight hard, too, for he has to do it."

In 1900 men in the fine little city of Danbury, 4,000 are now out of employment. Of the 4,000 men there are they all were fine, now hats they are they hats in the same. Of the 4,000 You can see them lounging about the fine shaded streets. You can see them lounge on Danbury has made this the finest little city in the country," said Mayor Gilbert. "Our new city hall cost $10 a day, working from 8:30 to 5 or 6 o'clock every day. Unloading all that. But if the light is bright in the morning, it is bright and it is dark darker. When the unions do have trouble it is real trouble. Everybody suffers."

LOVE LEADS BALD ON LOVE TOKENS FOR SAINT'S DAY

Portoffice Swamped With Tender Missives of Tender Valentine Day Decisions.

There's no use talking. Cupid was not old Saint Nick out of business pretty soon. With the postoffice filled to overflowing with letters coming with little red hearts seals and with big red hearts, cupid's work was not done. Who says sentiment has died out in this practical age?

Local dealers have held in the hands of the rich of valentines this year that they ever did. And they expect to do the entire count. At a school yesterday afternoon the valentine shopping fever was equal to the day before Christmas. Today will be larger than either.

Red-cheeked country lads, who had been taking pains over the frosty night, filled the stores, today. Cupids, pig tails, and some mamas were recklessly exchanged for wonderous creations of fluted, lace and tender sentiment. The city mails were not for behind. While he did not deliver the mail in a pronounced postillion, he brought hundreds of valentine pictures and dainty books of poetry.

Wants Red, Red Rose.

"I want one with a rose on," said one blushing country lad. He had the most gorgeous one decorated with a rose and cupid that the store had.

"Here's a dandy in the form of a lady," said the young man behind the counter.

"No, don't play tricks—read the other fellow don't, either," said the young man, who was embarrassed enough.

Finally he was fitted out to his entire satisfaction with a plug with a rose on it, and he left the store endowed with the shapely statement, "I'm a Valentine."

One man proved a reckless plunger. He bought a valentine for 50c, and a big postcard 25 cents in the whole.

"Wonder what he will do?" said the young man who sold him the 50c one. "He gave some other fellow a dime."

The newest valentine idea is the "Dutch" which is to be sent to the Christmas seals. These are cutting up quite a little bird and for the first time this year.

"DRYS" MAY SETTLE THEIR DIFFERENCES

Meeting Called to Let Prohibs Into Federation.

Acting President Lee Cleaver has called a meeting of the board of directors of the prohibitionists of Iowa federation for Tuesday. The meeting is called to see if the factional differences with the prohibitionists can be adjusted.

The prohibitionists are now chasing the federation with a fine tooth comb. They claim that when their chairman, Rev. Cleaver, resigned from the federation, it was without the consent of the board.

CALIFORNIA WILL PROTECT ITSELF

Congressman Kahn Sounds a Warning to Japs and Chinese.

By United Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Congressman Kahn of California, addressed the Lincoln day dinner tonight and said the people of California are determined to keep the Japs and Chinese out of the state. He said California's a white man's country and would continue to be.

He said, "If ever that narrow strip of land between the Pacific ocean and the Orientals the white man will be driven from the Pacific coast, Wherever the Chinese and Japanese are the white man must go."

Women Organize.

The wives of members of the legislature met at the Kirkwood yesterday at 3 o'clock, today in the city hall and organized a club for mutual benefit while they remain in the city. The organization will be a permanent affair. They are eighty members in the club. Mrs. Mercellis, wife of Representative Mercellis, was elected president. It is planned to have three women to the city, during the rest of the legislative session.

Blood Corpuscles and Disease Germs

Scientists have been learning more and more about the white blood corpuscles and our dependence on them for health and strength. They are everlastingly fighting for us, to protect our blood corpuscles and bodily tissues. And the healthier and stronger we keep them they fight.

Many thousands of victims yearly of contagious diseases are helpless because their corpuscles are too weak to do their duty. It is only when we are healthy that the red corpuscles in our tissues from the germ poison of fever, or cough or air invade the system they are breathe, the food we eat, and

MUST EAT SLOWLY TO AVOID DYSPEPSIA

Chew Food Thoroughly and Rest After Each Meal.

THIS IS THE BEST RULE

"There are two good reasons why rapid eating causes more dyspepsia than anything else," said a well known physician to the Ness, shortly chewed. It goes into the stomach and it has to be digested. It is digested by the saliva and pancreatic juice and by the action of the gastric water. The saliva and pancreatic juice are in a very usually reduce when it is quick lunch or hurried meal, and the saliva has little time to act on the starch in the food. The best way to relieve the stomach is to chew the food well and rest for a while after each meal. The pancreatic juice is only available in alkaline solution, and the gastric juice is acid. The saliva and pancreatic juice are neutralized by the acid of the gastric juice, and the pancreatic juice is stopped from being secreted. Nature's plan is to have a definite value. So all starchy food should be chewed and digested in the mouth. It is said that this simple rule will cure a great deal of dyspepsia, and that it will prevent it from ever coming on. Chew food thoroughly and rest for a while after each meal.

LET'S "KID" THE FARMER

Come on, farmer.

Let's repeat jokes about the farmer.

Let's call him a sap, a "hayseed" and his daughter a sweet mamma.

Put on an oily frolic.

Let's make the farmer ashamed of his job to the utmost extent and the more mill with our jokes when we all get to be "smart" nation. We will all be up-to-date.

And then we will all starve to death.

Isn't the farmer a joke?

Haven't all the "funny" papers said so for 500 years?

Do we realize that there are only two world; people who live on farms and people

Do we realize that ever to the world's h more farmers that there have been of all the ing, than there not but a mill, mine, factory, "Tilly" then that the farmer's road could said were it not for the farmer

His food, his clothes, his shelter, all the clothes are made. All our luxuries represent are produce.

There is just man and the earth in all th The earth yields a living to man and earth

The farmer supplies his labor to the earth and timber and wool and leather and meat.

The farmer is the only one of us who what the fruit of the farm nature's storehouse and, giving him as imp process to pupils with the fruit of the farm may each one of us all excuse for eating these sleeping sheltered.

The miners are needed to furnish materials up the farm products; for railroads and steam to measure it; for wires with which to carry telegraph market quotations.

The bankers contribute to the farmer's ability to do his job. The lawyers argue about the title. The judges hold sway and settle disputes for the bodies of the farmers and the rest of the world which is working over farm produce.

The preachers are paid out of the crops to care for our souls.

Stop and think if you can conceive of a single human being—including bankers—who never lives off the farm.

The Iowa suffragettes have planned for a great mass meeting on Sunday, February 28, to show the legislators of Iowa that the end cannot be delayed for equality in civic life as between the sexes, but having discovered that the legislature always convenes in Iowa for the March 1 session, they change the date of their meeting. There would probably be few legislators in the city on the date proposed.

30-YEAR OLD WHISKEY GIVES ROOSEVELT

Also Has Hickory Walking Stick Cut From Farm.

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 15.—President Roosevelt will reach Washington at 7 p. m. today, two hours later than originally intended. Yesterday's difficulty in getting over the washed out bridge between Hollidaysburg and the Lincoln farm caused a delay not contained upon, but the railroad officials were prepared nevertheless, to transport the presidential train back on the original time. To do so would require some rapid running.

The president, however, advised against this. The president expects with him to Washington the usual number of presents. Two of them are antiques, one being a demijohn of 30-year old whiskey presented by John B. Conte, of Louisville, and another a walking stick cut from the Lincoln farm and presented by the Foresters of Kentucky.

WILSON WARNS CONGRESS THAT HE NEEDS MONEY

Campaign Against Foot and Mouth Disease Will Be Crippled Unless He Has More.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture, today communicated to congress the fact that the appropriation of $150,000 is made to cover the expenses of the work of eradicating the foot and mouth disease of the bureau of animal industry, which was charged to the inspection branch of the government, is entirely inadequate before the end of the fiscal year.

Early in the present session the secretary asked congress to give him enough for the work, but only $150,000 was appropriated. He says that $183,776 already has been spent and there are further liabilities estimated at $41,224, making a total of $247,000 up to this date. All of this money was taken from the appropriation for general expenses of the bureau of animal industry. Mr. Wilson says further:

More Work to Do.

"While the general bureau work has not yet suffered, it is apparent that it will be a most unfortunate and unfair thing to take away from the appropriation is reimbursed. The cessation of quarantine work is the final work of disinfection is the work that it will be possible to undertake all of them until warm weather comes in three months or more.

The recent epidemic of foot and mouth disease has cost the country large expenditures was in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Iowa and Maryland. The disease was brought into the country last spring but Mr. Wilson has declared that now there is no hope of finding any more symptoms with a view to preventing another outbreak.

TEDDY'S AIDES TRIED AND TRUE TO WALK PLANK

have my own opinion of Wilson and my own plans to secure to the confidence of the country at the end of my administration I might propose Wilson's name for some terrible places. But I can't be expected to take the advice of those who have come up under my ambassador."

But this does not dispel the doubt felt in some quarters of the president's friends concerning Taft. The fact that he was called down upon them, they believe, and that he was obliged to do it, has unnerved.

"Taft, they lament, 'was chosen to carry out the Roosevelt policies, whatever the president thinks he would do so they put him in the white house. Now he is there and he knows he would have had another term if he wanted it, and he knows he has not left his place to win in the condemnation of the president. Taft will be quite as certain to see that he is worthy of the confidence of his friends of Roosevelt, and he will begin by everything off his desk, assuming the attitude of making a strong bid for that confidence."

Friends Dumfounded.

The friends of Roosevelt have been slow to realize, believed that they had too impossible the belief that Taft could be guilty of such ingratitude which has seemed to many his course. They have hesitated to believe that Taft has gone over bag and baggage to the conservative men controlled the executive branch of the government under Roosevelt, and which have made such a desperate struggle for seven years to gain their grip.

The indications, however, are all against the president-elect. His bind with Cannon, followed by conferences with leaders of the work and menace of Roosevelt, followed by conferences with leaders of the Aldrich-Cannon ring in congress, with the fact that he remained in the white house on call for to repair any breach that might be found for him, between the Roosevelt standard, and finally his complete abandonment of Roosevelt Wilson and Bonaparte, seem to have left no room for doubt as to the direction in which the next administration will move.

There is a chance, of course, that all conclusions may be found to be wrong. His cabinet has not been officially announced, and there is another explanation. It is hoped by Taft and Roosevelt that there will be

GEORGIA JUDGE FINES NEGROES $30,000,000

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 15.—Judge Jackson Landis one better and make the fine $30,000,000 and Barnsdale Pippen yesterday in passing sentence on a negro convict for violating the health ordinance in allowing garbage to accumulate on Peachtree street. The fine was imposed upon each of the defendants.

Appreciating their inability to pay the fine, the negroes took to the bench with groans and sterling cries.

When the judge asked the court's decision concerning the fine, the Pippen convicted the defendants upon condition that each of the defendants deposit one dollar with the clerk.

The indictment under which the sentence was imposed provides that the fine "may impose any fine he sees fit."

"CITY OF REFUGE" IS NOT WANTED

Reforms Proposed in Matter of Handling Criminals.

A great reform is proposed in regard to extradition of accused persons in Mexico. A bill has been introduced in the congress of the republic which provides that no person shall be held seeking to prevent extradition by the government of the state of Sonora, where, that the determination of the governor that the accused is a fugitive from justice shall be final in each case. Though the evidence was conclusive that the men wanted were criminals of the worst type, in the cases at least, the requisitions were held back because of mere technical matters which had in fact been passed upon by the governor and made the ground of no consequence. It was even suggested that Sonora City be said to be a city of refuge" because of the fact that it would permit the accused to resort to the courts to prevent extradition.

This was done, but not until a democratic member from Madison county had read a pseudo telegram signed by Jacob Schiff, purporting to weighing against action on this and other memorials, which he said, it might precipitate war with Japan.

U.S. COMMISSIONER RAN BOOZE JOINT

Said He Had Stocked Up on Whiskey, Fearing prohibition Law.

NEWNAN, Ga., Feb. 12.—Judge W. H. Best, United States commissioner, was fined $100 in the city court here yesterday on a charge of keeping whiskey for sale, and was fined $100.

Five barrels of whiskey consigned to Henry Smith, Newnan, was sold by the chief of police to an officer, who then Judge Best, and a warrant was immediately issued for the commissioner.

Judge Best admitted that the title to the whiskey was in him, and explained to the court that, being an old man, accustomed to his drink, he feared the prohibition movement now sweeping the country would deprive him of his usual stimulant, because he decided to lay in a store for the future.

FINDS 'NOTHER BLADE IN CITY JAIL OELL

Cross Comes Across Evidence of Suicidal Desire.

Carefully secreted in a strong cage of the city jail last occupied by Louis Lewis, alias Jackie Lewis, Cross Friday afternoon found a wicked looking blade. The end of the weapon was broked and broken in pieces and the blade left intact.

It is thought that Hildebrand secreted it there. It is believed he intended also for the purpose of taking his own life rather than submit to the city officer. Almost immediately after this arrest and commitment he was taken before Chief Johnston and from there to the county jail. This is the second weapon of the same kind that Hildebrand has secured secreted in the cells of the city jail.

TAFT LEAVES THE SUNNY SOUTH, GOES TO WASHINGTON

Up Bright and Early Despite Banquet of Night Before and Smiles on Crowds.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13.—President-elect Taft today continued his stay in New Orleans and at the same time completed the schedule of his visit to southern cities previous to his inauguration March 4.

After leaving nearly two days here he left at 9:30 this morning over the Queen & Crescent route for Cincinnati. He will remain there until Tuesday morning when he will go to Washington.

In spite of the fact that it was almost 2 o'clock this morning before Mr. Taft made his exit from the hall of the Knights of Pythias where the great annual civic ball was held, he was up early and bright and early for an early incident to his departure there were no signs of fatigue in his manner, as he welcomed the party who eventually went to the station. The characteristic good humor was in evidence as he chatted with those who gathered to see him off, and as he smilingly waved good-bye as the train pulled out.

Played a Little Golf

While Mr. Taft's time in New Orleans was largely occupied with social affairs, he found the opportunity to spend a few hours yesterday in the pursuit of his favorite diversion—golf. As the principal recreation in honor of Mrs. Taft was being a spectator on the links, he took to the links himself. He had not become sufficiently out of practice to play a losing game. Instead he scored a creditable victory over his opponent, Philip Werlein, president of the New Orleans Progressive Union, under whose auspices he was entertained while in New Orleans.

There was nothing to mar the program for Mr. Taft's entertainment in New Orleans. From the time he landed at a cotton Thursday afternoon from the cruiser Birmingham, to the hour of his farewell this morning, the various events which had been arranged for, parade, speechmaking, banquet and one or two other functions took place as scheduled.

BRAND NEW SONGS FOR VAUDEVILLE

"I'm Afraid to Go Home After Dark" and similar familiar songs will not greet the ears of Majestic audiences next season. Only brand new songs which have "been written expressly for the men who present them will be heard.

Martin Beck, head of the Orpheum circuit of which the Majestic is a member, has issued an edict that songs which have to be done up in cloth bind will no longer be tolerated in Orpheum theatres. Artists must appear with brand new songs or they won't get a hearing on an Orpheum stage.

HUNTING SHOES FITTED.

President Will Wear No. 8 Hobnails in California

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Roosevelt's hunting shoes for his African trip were fitted today by the president's physician, who was interviewed to-day. The shoe is a low cut, weighs over 100, and hobnails are there being comfortable and easy.

The shoe for his left foot is an ordinary metal in color and is square pointed. They are heavy, reliable and created with all so as to make them waterproof.

Vice president's hunting outfit, several of them waterproof—his guns and ammunition and his coats are all ready to be put on board the steamer the last of March.

THEATER MEN IN PANIC. SEE REFORM

Managers of Reform Houses Will Meet.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Before the week is ended a meeting of managers of reform houses in this city is likely to be held, at which a good hard bump, influential managers have taken the matter of reform in their own hands and into their own hands and now are considering the plan of holding a meeting of the Theatrical Managers' association to call a halt, if possible, on "attractions" that do not reflect credit, they declare, on the theater as an institution.

Just what action may be taken to clear the sensational atmosphere in the theatrical district is not yet determined. It is not improbable that a committee will be appointed to confer with a number of plays, it is generally agreed that this committee will have to exercise tenfold and disinfectation as the result of a month's work.
